

Parcelforce Worldwide launches new ‘Frankpay’ all-in-one shipping system

24-08-2020

Parcelforce Worldwide has launched a new FrankPay shipping system to provide businesses with instant access to all domestic and international services, with payment via a franking machine.

FrankPay helps customers to save time through in-house postage, enabling quicker processing of larger parcel volumes. It also keeps all payments in one place so that customers can efficiently manage postage spend without having to apply for a Parcelforce Worldwide contract.

Franking is an easy, flexible way to pay for Royal Mail Group postage, including Parcelforce Worldwide, postage of business parcels – especially if sending larger volumes. Payment is made via a franking machine at the end of the send.parceforce.com booking journey. It also enables customers to create labels for UK and Export destinations and access a range of Next day delivery services.

In the new FrankPay shipping system, customers can simply choose the FrankPay option on the payment method page within the retail booking journey, enter their die number (their unique number on their franking machine) and generate their Parcelforce Worldwide labels. Payment via a Franking machine means customers can request a Parcelforce Worldwide collection or drop their parcel off at a Post Office and also save up to 15% on selected services when they join Parcelforce’s member scheme Rewards4U. Karen Whittingham, Sales & Commercial Director from Parcelforce Worldwide, said “We have launched a new FrankPay shipping system to help our customers to save time and increase efficiency, especially when sending larger volumes of items. At Parcelforce Worldwide, we are constantly looking to innovate and expand our services to cater to the needs of our customers and FrankPay is another example of this.”
